

LCANE

London Centre for the Ancient Near East

2017 Autumn Seminar Series: Taking the Patriarchy for Granted

18.15 Room B104, Brunei Gallery, SOAS
<http://banealcane.org/lcane/>

Right: Statuette of the singer Ur-Nanshe
Mari (Tell Hariri), Syria. 3rd millennium B.C.

Monday 9th October

Ilan Peled (Amsterdam)

Ancient Near Eastern patriarchy and masculinities: not to be taken for granted

Monday 30th October

Kate Kelley (Oxford)

Donkeys, pigs, and men—when we can't tell them apart (in late 4th - early 3rd mill. B.C. Mesopotamia)

Monday 13th November

Jane Gordon (UCL)

Beyond the 'Emotional Woman' in Old Assyrian Letters

Monday 27th November

Karina Croucher (Bradford)

Boys will be boys? Power, epistemology and constructed gender identities in interpreting the Prehistory of Southwest Asia

Monday 11th December

Agnès Garcia-Ventura (Barcelona)

Taking the matriarchy for granted? Thoughts on the relationship between ancient Near Eastern studies and the myth of matriarchy

Convenor: Yağmur Heffron y.heffron@ucl.ac.uk